Field of operation on which it faces in fact is very varied and spans through different competences. The activity is distinguished by innovative ideas that within a specific experience gained over time is based on continuous experimentation, as well as on the use of new technologies.

Varied and multiple the technical documentation that is provided for each architectural project, because it is considered an essential element in order to allow an effective correspondence between the designed work "and the final result" under the active supervision of the construction management.

Experiences abroad, occurred in recent years for multiple reasons, especially in African and Middle-East countries have entailed an interactive experience with local cultures in both management and design, become a reference for an idea, where everything is indispensable, and the new starting point for each new project.
